About Hoops for your Health

It's hard to find organized opportunities to get a team together and play. It's even harder to find an opportunity to play that also supports the community. Hoops for your Health, now in its 12th year, delivers on both fronts! Hoops for your Health is a two night three-on-three basketball tournament where players of all skill levels come out to compete and have fun with all proceeds benefiting the Arlington Free Clinic. Each year, about 20 teams comprised of men and women who live and/or work in Arlington County, participate in this exciting tournament.

About Arlington Free Clinic

Arlington Free Clinic (AFC) is a community-based, volunteer driven nonprofit providing free, high-quality healthcare for low-income, medically uninsured adult residents of Arlington. Since 1994, we have been filling the gap in access to medical care for the community's most vulnerable residents. Each year, our team of over 500 volunteers, including 180 physicians, make a significant difference in the lives of over 1,600 individuals. When patients get care at AFC, we manage their conditions, keep them out of expensive emergency rooms and minimize health care costs in our community.
